IMPROVING YOUR SKILLS

The ATLS® Program was developed to teach emergency care providers one safe, reliable method for assessing and initially managing the injured patient. The course provides an organized approach for evaluation and management of seriously injured patients and offers a foundation of common knowledge for all members of the trauma team. The emphasis is on the critical "first hour" of care, focusing on initial assessment, lifesaving intervention, reevaluation, stabilization, and, when needed, transfer to a trauma center.

This two-day course consists of core content lectures, case presentations, discussions, development of life-saving interventional skills, and practical experience. Lectures are given in the morning and practical skills stations are reserved for the afternoon. Lectures include initial assessment, airway and ventilation, and trauma management of head, neck, thoracic, abdominal, spine and spinal cord, musculoskeletal injuries and shock. And also injuries due to heat and cold, burns, and trauma related injuries in pediatrics, geriatrics, and pregnant women.
